REVIVALIST AT MT. COMFORT

. . . . Rev. Lee R. Jamison

The Rev. Lee R. Jamison, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, in Buchanan, Va., will preach in revival services at the Mt. Comfort Methodist Church, beginning Sunday evening at 7:45, and continuing through Friday evening, Nov. 4.

The Charge-wide effort is part of the simultaneous revivals being sponsored by the Methodist Churches of the Lynchburg area.

Rev. Mr. Jamison, a native of Roanoke, is a graduate of Ashbury College and Ashbury Theological Seminary, Wilmore, Ky.

The public is cordially invited to these services.

Memorial Methodist Church

Evangelistic meetings will begin at Memorial Methodist Church on Sunday, October 30th, and continue through November 6th. The Song Service will begin each evening at 7:30, followed by preaching at 8 o'clock by the Pastor, the Rev. Lee H. Richcreek. The public is cordially invited to attend these meetings, which are in cooperation with the Lynchburg District Evangelistic Mission.

Preparations for this effort have included a Religious census, which will be followed this week by house to house visitation, and next week by a pulpit evangelistic program on every Methodist charge in the District. This week of evangelism throughout the District may be the spark that may eventually light the world.

COTTON GROWN IN APPOMATTOX

"Away down South in the land of cotton!" That's the way it looks on the farm of D. M. Wood, Appomattox R. F. D., near Piney Mountain. Mr. Wood has 1.8 acres of cotton, and it is now being picked. We are indebted to Dr. D. A. Christian, Jr. for bringing Mr. Wood's cotton crop, rare for this area, to our attention. Dr. Christian and son, Chesley, came by The Times-Virginian office and left us a complete cotton plant, roots, cotton bolls and all. If any of our readers have never seen cotton, come by!

Advice Given On Seedlings

The committee seeking increased plantings of tree seedlings in Appomattox County today issued the following statement:

"Too frequently we consider our woodland as something that just exists and whatever it produces, whether little or much, is up to nature. This is only partially true. The way in which we manage our timberlands determines the results we get. Manage it wisely and it produces well. Manage it poorly, and the return will be small.

"Timber is a crop and should be managed as such. Protect it from fire. When it is too thick to make economical growth, thin it and remove undesirable species. When it is too thin, reforest it with desirable species.

"It will pay every land owner in Appomattox County to reappraise his timber land. Decide now to reforest that badly cut over land. Plant idle acres of open land not suited for crops or pasture. Visit your County Agent or Soil Conservation Office to get timely advice on your woodland management. Join hands with your neighbor in support of the 'Plant More Trees Program' for Appomattox County."

Tuesday Legal Holiday

Tuesday, General Election Day, is a legal holiday in Virginia.

Tuesday, Nov. 8, is General Election day in Virginia, and a last minute effort is being made to get out a sizeable vote for Appomattox County. There are approximately 2,500 eligible voters in the county, but thus far there has been a minimum of interest, and the size of the actual vote is uncertain.

To be elected are unopposed candidates for the State Senate and the House of Delegates, and a slate of unopposed nominees for county offices.

Polling places will open at 6 A. M. and close at 6 P. M. There are ten precincts in the county.

The candidates, all Democrats, are as follows:

For the State Senate, Chas. T. Moses.

For the House of Delegates: John B. Boatwright.

For Commonwealth's Attorney: George Abbitt, Jr.

For County Treasurer: John G. Plunkett.

For Commissioner of the Revenue: J. H. O'Brien.

For Sheriff: David T. Robertson.

For Supervisor in Southside District: F. L. Murphy.

For Supervisor in the Stonewall District: Otho W. Martin, Jr.

For Supervisor in the Colver Hill District: Richard Webb.

For Justice of the Peace, Southside District (Three to be elected): T. W. Moses, Mrs. Lucille S. Conner and E. T. Guill.

The officials to be elected Tuesday will take office in January.

In appealing for a good turn-out of voters next Tuesday, the quality of the candidates listed and the importance of the county maintaining a record for a large vote, were cited as reasons for everyone making an effort to cast their ballots.

GOOD QUALITY LEAF CARRIES OLD BELT AVERAGE TO $56.24

No definite trend occurred in average prices on the Old Belt flue-cured tobacco markets last week, but the quality of offerings was such that the price average was lifted. Volume was fairly heavy, except through the middle of the week at the smaller auction centers. The gross sales for the week ending on October 28 were 30,763,710 pounds for a season high average price of $56.24 per hundredweight.

Better quality marketings pulled the weekly average $1.84 over the previous high of $54.40 of last week. Season sales were raised to 194,243,135 pounds averaging $53.-42. During the comparable period in 1954, only 181,074,132 pounds were sold for an average of $54.34.

Increased proportions of good to choice leaf and less poor and low, improved the general quality considerably. Also a larger percentage of wrappers were offered. Bulk of the offerings were poor to good leaf, low and fair smoking leaf and fair lugs.

Fluctuations in prices mostly of $1.00 and $2.00 were observed for a large number of grades but gains and losses were practically even. However, around 40 per cent of the grade averages were unchanged.
